PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Mr. Chickowski's construction experience spans nearly two decades. He advanced his construction career from the bottom up. Starting as an Information System Manager at corporate headquarters, then transitioned to field construction; first as a project engineer, quickly advancing to project manager and finally as an accounting executive all at the same successful electrical contractor. His experience with IT infrastructure allows him to speak both technically as well as financially and often melds the two. He is keen on process documentation and training, yet also can author meaningful Crystal Reports. Brian has real world experience working with all phases of construction from estimating to close out from almost all operational organization levels.
